

What have we learnt today?

José Delameilleure

What have we learnt today

- Half of your competitors are already reaping the benefits of virtualisation, and by the end of next year this will rise to 75%
- Virtualisation can make a big difference when it comes to cost of hardware, energy consumption and space
- Lack of knowledge is the biggest hurdle towards virtualisation - build strong skills in your teams
- Merger of companies or internal reorganisation can be a good first step towards virtualisation

What have we learnt today

- Virtualisation will have a big influence on internal processes and the applications that automate these processes
- Work with trustworthy partners
- Watch out for virtualisation silo's, especially if you are working on different platforms
